1992 YEARBOOK - VOL. 19

UMass/Boston Commencement Address

May 30, 1992

by David Lau Student Trustee

Today, we are gathered here at the University of Massachusetts at Boston to recognize and celebrate the accomplishments of our graduating students, and to reflect upon the meaning and the consequences of such accomplishments. For this purpose, I, on behalf of the Board of Trustees of UMass and the Student Senate of UMass/Boston, welcome all our guests to this campus, and I extend greetings to the members of this University's community, especially to the honorary degree recipients who arrive here as guests but will leave here as members of this very special community.

UMass/Boston is the most diverse four-year institution of higher learning in New England. When we proudly state such a fact, we mean that we have more minority students in percentage than any other school in the New England region. But, to me, we are diverse, not only because of our skin colors, but because of our backgrounds. If you look towards our proud graduating class this year, you will see that the majority of them are not the happy-go-lucky 21-year olds that you will witness at other institutions. This graduating class has its share of mothers, fathers, grandmothers and grandfathers. There are those who had already established a career before deciding to take up a different path in their lives, or those who wanted to pick-up a second degree by attending evening classes after work. There are those who touched the face of death from drug and/or alcohol abuse, those who society gave up on, but nevertheless struggled on, impervious to the statistical odds. There are those who had previously attended so called "elite" schools and transferred to this institution and struggled along side others. Such diverse backgrounds, not only of culture, ethnicity, religion, economic class, but diversity in the roads they took to get here today is why I am so proud when I state, UMass/Boston is the most diverse school in New England.

About a year ago, I had a professor who used to teach at Harvard but crossed the Charles when he realized his calling was at an urban, public university; he told us that when he teaches here, everything that was abstract in Harvard becomes part of real life here. In a way he said, UMass/Boston is like a field study in life; for example, when one wanted to write a paper on the welfare state, you could turn to one of your classmates for his/her experience dealing with the welfare system, either as a social worker or as a welfare recipient. At UMass/Boston we witness, examine and explore the lives of those around us, those close to us, to seek and resolve real life problems in a practical and humane way. Contrast this with our Vice President Quayle who dwells on the social consequences of a fictional character's actions. He speaks of moral values, the teachings, the examples that this character Murphy Brown is setting for generations of American youth.

Moral values: the informed choice one makes between good and evil. To our Vice President, it is evil for an unmarried woman to have a child, and to raise this child without a husband. It is evil because, according to his logic, women are choosing to have children on their own. Perhaps for a fabulously rich and famous fictional character such as Murphy Brown, who can squeeze her job, household chores, and other obligations into 30 minutes a week it is possible to make such a choice. But what of those who do not have such a choice? Are you to condemn them too, Mr. Vice President? Will you condemn a teenager because she is pregnant, when she became so because she was never taught sex education in school because your admirer Mr. Reagan did not want it so? Will you condemn her even though your aspirant Mr. Bush does not want condoms distributed in schools? Will you condemn her for having the baby rather than getting an abortion because she's been taught for the last 12 years from the Reagan/Bush administration that abortion is immoral and that she may go to hell for it? Will you condemn her for not marrying the boy who impregnated her although he's now in jail because he was never educated because the government decided to build more prisons than schools?

Mr. Vice President, it is the choice that you and your fellow leaders have made that are immoral, because it was and is within your grasp to make those choices that could prevent so much suffering and so called "evils". It is immoral to condemn individuals for making so called "decisions" that are forced upon them.

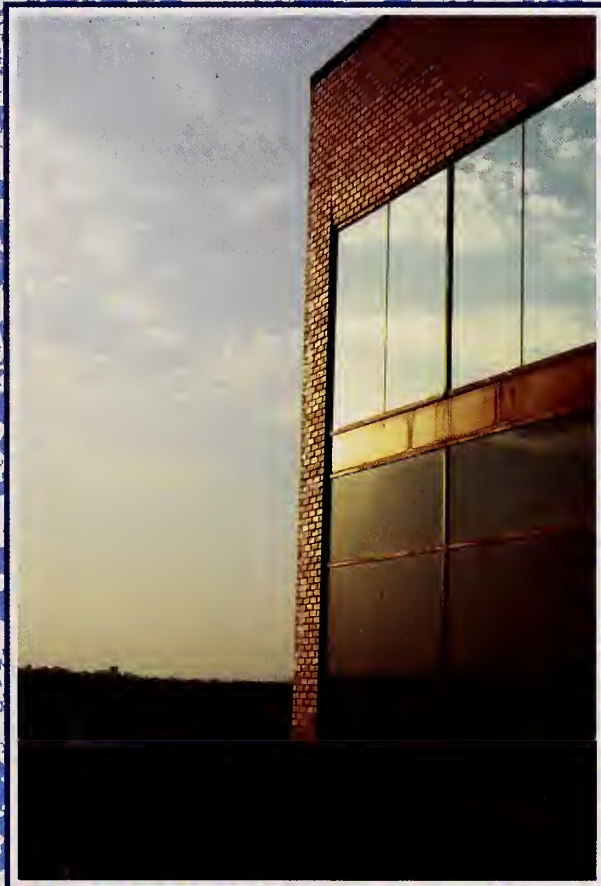

Moral values: it hinges upon a choice between good and evil. America has reached a point where discussion of good and evil is no longer relevant because too many citizens are faced with choices among evils. Too many paths to the "good" have been eliminated by 12 years of the Reagan/Bush/Quayle era, and yet they condemn those who trot on the only path they know.

We must build more paths. One of those paths built in the hey days of the "Great Society" is UMass/Boston. But even this path, which was once well paved is being turned into a dirt road, full of potholes; hard to travel. America needs more roads. But first, we need to repair the ones that already exist. Otherwise the moral values that our Vice President Quayle speaks of so frequently these days will perish, not because of individuals' fortitude, but because of his. Let us rebuild this wonderful institution through the strength of diversity. Let us forge a world class university out of UMass/Boston, so that we can produce the builders of new roads and dreams, as we have done today, into the eternal future for the prosperity of all. I hope that each one of you partake in this noble goal, and I thank you in advance.

And once again, I congratulate the class of '92. You've made us proud.

PARTING SHOTS

YOU WOULDN'T HAPPEN TO HAVE AN EXTRA CAP & GOWN?

THERE'S ALWAYS SOMEONE WHO HAS TO BE DIFFERENT!!

DOES UMASS EVER DO ANYTHING ON TIME?

EXCERPTS FROM THE CHANCELLOR'S YEARBOOK ADDRESS

"I offer my congratulations to the Class of 1992 and wish all of you great success as you make your way in the world.

You have received degrees from a University that has always prized scholarship that directly advances the democratic goals of our society. UMASS/BOSTON also has always honored service to the community to help those struggling to lead more productive lives. I hope that some part of your lives is involved in building a sense of community.

I should remind you that you have pursued your studies in a city where many generations ago the Puritan John Winthrop urged a hardy and resilient band of settlers to consider the rewards attached to developing a sense of community, fellowship and obligation to civic responsibility John Winthrop told his fellow Puritans "to delight in each other, make others' conditions our own, rejoice together, mourn together, labor and suffer together, always having before our eyes our commission and community in the work, our community as members of the same body."

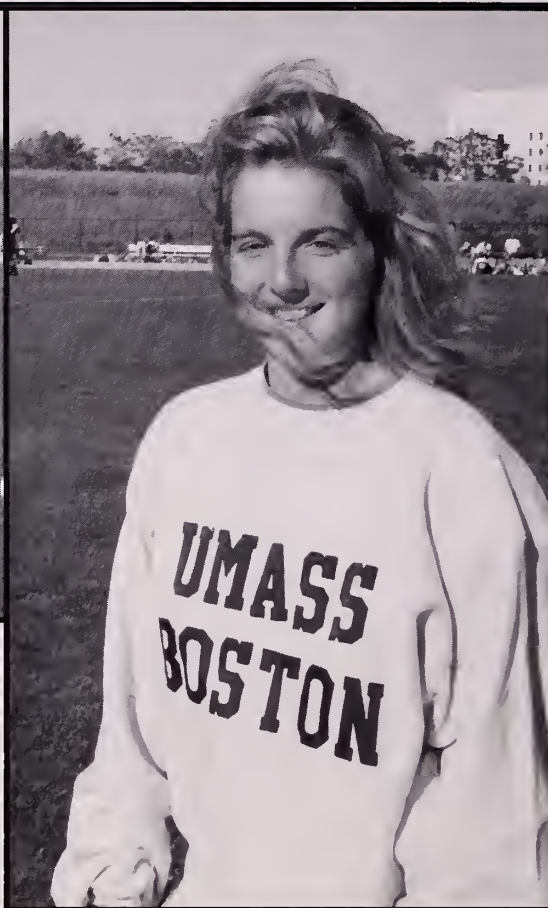

For wherever you are, you should consider contributing your vision, talent and energy to see aright the many problems besieging America. The task of finding solutions to crime, to intolerance of any kind, to slipshod schools, to a crumbling infrastructure, to foul air, to a terrible economy, to our rotting inner cities cannot just be left in the hands of those running our governments.

You are leaving the University with the spirit of the University in your hearts and minds. I wish you good fortune as you use your learning in the years ahead to follow your respective stars. As our newest graduates, you have given us hope for the future, and when you cross the frontiers of new challenges, you will carry the dream that we all share about achieving a fairer, more just nation."

The team opened the season with a 17-3 over Maine Maritime, marking the first time a UMass/Boston lacrosse team had ever won its season-opener in the program's 11-year history. The Beacons followed that with a 13-9 win over Curry and a 16-13 win at Clark University for the best-ever start in school history. This year's squad also set single-season team records in goals, with 200, and assists, with 138. The Beacons tied a school lacrosse record with 10 wins. Sophomore attackman Jamie Mulronev led the Beacons with 49 goals and set single-season records in assists, with 36, and points, with 85. UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT BOSTON COMMENCEMENT, 1992

Saturday, May 30
at 11:00 am

The University Mace

Symbols of authority and power, maces were originally hand weapons designed for use against armor. Topped by the flame of knowledge, the University Mace has the University Seal as a focal point and unifying element. Tassels of maroon and white hang from the shaft of fourteen rods of black walnut, symbolizing the fourteen counties of the Commonwealth.

The head of the mace is gold plate over highly polished brass. Complex curves radiating from the hub in which the seal is centered reflect light in constantly changing patterns, symbolic of the many-faceted environment of the university life.

Academic Costume and Regalia

Academic regalia represent traditions which come down from the Middle Ages, when European universities were institutions of the church. At that time, robes were a common form of dress, particularly for officials of church and state. The cut of the robe, its adornment, and the colors used comprised a specialized heraldry that conveyed the rank and station of the wearer. At the universities, both faculty and students were considered to be part of the church hierarchy and were expected to wear the prescribed gowns. As society moved toward more modern forms of dress, only royalty, clergy, judges, and academics retained the traditional regalia, reserving it only for ceremonial use.

Modern academic regalia retain some of the symbols of the earlier forms of ceremonial dress. The gown tends to be fullest, longest, and heaviest for the doctoral degree. The sleeves for the bachelor's and master's gowns are typically open at the wrist. Cuffs are more common on the doctoral gown, and its sleeves are adorned by three velvet strips, symbolic of the degree. The mantle worn about the shoulders, called the hood, is the remnant of functional headgear worn for warmth in the unheated classrooms of medieval universities. Today its colors refer to the school that granted the degree and the level or discipline of the degree (e.g., navy blue for Ph.D., pink for music).

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. However, almost three dozen universities in this country and many others throughout the world have adopted more colorful robes. In general, this practice has been limited to schools more than one hundred years old. Among the schools represented by colorful robes at commencement ceremonies are Boston College, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Harvard, New York, Oxford, Princeton, Rutgers, Stanford, Tufts, and Yale Universities, and the Universities of California, Kansas, and Rhode Island.

Please note:

The audience is asked to remain seated throughout this ceremony. At the end of the ceremony, those attending the diploma-presentation ceremony for College of Arts and Sciences graduates should continue to remain seated. Those attending individual college ceremonies at other locations will be invited to rise and leave college by college. The locations for these ceremonies are: College of Management, Clark Center Gymnasium (room location: Clark Center Rink); College of Nursing (including the Program in Human Performance and Fitness), Ryan Lounge, McCormack Hall; College of Public and Community Service, Lipke Auditorium, Science Center; Graduate College of Education, McCormack Hall Gymnasium; McCormack Institute, University Club, Healey Library; Undergraduate Education Programs, Snowden Auditorium, Wheatley Hall.

Music at this ceremony is provided by The Quintessential Brass. The flogs of various nations displayed along the campus entrance road are a gift of the class of 1987.

This program is for ceremonial purposes. The official list of graduates is maintained by the university registrar.

D. Allan Bromley
Doctor of Laws

D. Allan Bromley was born in Westmeath, Ontario. He studied in the Faculty of Engineering at Queen's University in Ontario, receiving a B.Sc. degree with highest honors (1948) and an M.Sc. degree in nuclear physics (1950). He earned a Ph.D. degree in nuclear physics from the University of Rochester (1952).

Since 1989 he has been Assistant to the President for Science and Technology, and director of the Office of Science and Technology Policy in the Executive Office of the President. His leadership over many years in nuclear physics research has included important work in such areas as the structure and dynamics of nuclei, heavy ion science, the development of accelerators and of detection systems, and computer-based data acquisition and analysis systems. While at the White House he is on leave from Yale University, where he is the Henry Ford II Professor of Physics, and has been since 1961 the director of the A.W. Wright Nuclear Structure Observatory.

He has been a leader as well in the scientific community, serving as president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (1981) and the International Union of Pure and Applied Physics (1984-87). He was a member of President Reagan's White House Science Council (1981-89), and has been an outspoken advocate for international cooperation in science. He has published eighteen books and more than 450 articles. His numerous honors and awards include a Guggenheim Fellowship, the Humboldt Foundation Prize, and the National Medal of Science.

In recognizing D. Allan Bromley, we are honoring both a leading scientist and a leader in science that serves the public interest.

Sammy Cahn
Doctor of Fine Arts

Sammy Cahn, born Samuel Cohen on Manhattan's Lower East Side, started playing the violin as a child. He began working as a musician and writing song lyrics while still in his teens.

His career spans a half-century of American popular music. Recording had just begun to replace publishing as the music industry's driving force when he and composer Saul Chaplin wrote their 1935 hit, "Rhythm is Our Business," for Jimmy Lunceford. In 1937 their English adaptation of a Yiddish popular song, "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen," helped to make the Andrews Sisters famous.

During World War II, turned down by the army for health reasons, Mr. Cahn worked on songs for both movies and recordings, mainly with composer Jule Styne, with whom he wrote "Time After Time", "Three Coins in the Fountain", and the Broadway musical "High Button Shoes". With composer Jimmy Van Heusen, he wrote songs for Frank Sinatra - including "Come Fly With Me" and "Call Me Irresponsible" - Bing Crosby, and others, starting in 1955.

Mr. Cahn has remained active in music. He appeared in a 1974 Broadway review of his own songs, which he successfully revived in 1987 with performances in San Francisco and London. He has served as president of the National Academy of Popular Music, and is a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Performers board of directors.

In honoring Sammy Cahn, we pay tribute to a man whose contributions go beyond entertainment: His creative work forms part of the fabric that makes up our history and our culture.

Mr. Cahn's degree will be conferred at Gerontology Center graduation ceremonies on June 3rd at the John F. Kennedy Library.

Benjamin S. Carson
Doctor of Science

Benjamin S. Carson was born and grew up in Detroit. He received a B.A. degree from Yale University (1973), and earned an M.D. at the University of Michigan (1977).

Dr. Carson has been the director of the pediatric surgery division and co-director of the neurosurgical oncology section at Johns Hopkins University and Hospital since 1984. He also holds appointments as assistant professor of neurosurgery, oncology, and pediatrics, at the University's School of Medicine. His distinguished work in neurosurgery includes the successful completion of a difficult and risky procedure to separate Siamese twins joined at the head. He is the author or co-author of more than sixty scientific articles. Among his professional activities are memberships in such organizations as the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Association of Neurological Surgeons, and the National Pediatric Oncology Group.

Dr. Carson's influence has extended beyond his profession. In his autobiography, Gifted Hands (1990), he describes the long road which began for him in the poor neighborhood where he grew up; and with a new book, Think Big, he continues to inspire others to follow in his footsteps. His story has been of great importance to many young African-Americans, and he has received numerous awards for his work in the community. Last year he was given UMass/Boston's Chancellor's Medal, at ceremonies celebrating the establishment of the University's Benjamin S. Carson Scholarship Program, which provides financial support and special encouragement for promising students primarily of African-American and Hispanic-American heritage.

In honoring Benjamin S. Carson, we pay tribute to a man of high professional distinction who has the ability to inspire us through the brilliance of his work and through the example of his life.

Mildred Dresselhaus
Doctor of Science

Mildred Dresselhaus, a native of Brooklyn, attended school in New York City and graduated summa cum laude from Hunter College in 1951. She studied at Cambridge University as a Fulbright Fellow (1951-52) and earned an A.M. degree from Radcliffe College (1953), and a Ph.D. in physics from the University of Chicago (1958), where she studied with Enrico Fermi.

She has enjoyed a long and distinguished career in teaching and research - focusing particularly on low-temperature physics and on the physics of solids - beginning with her work as a staff member at MIT's Lincoln Laboratory (1960-67). She has been a professor in the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science at MIT since 1968, and a professor in MIT's Department of Physics since 1983. She served as director of the MIT Center for Materials Science and Engineering (1977-83), and in 1986 she was appointed one of MIT's twelve Institute Professors, the only woman to be so honored. She has been a visiting professor at universities in Brazil, Israel, Japan, and Venezuela.

Her professional honors include the Society of Women Engineers Achievement Award and the National Medal of Science. She has taken leadership roles in a number of the professional organizations in which she holds membership, serving on the council of the National Academy of Engineering, as chair of the engineering section of the National Academy of Sciences, and as president of the American Physical Society.

We honor Mildred Dresselhaus for her outstanding leadership in physics and engineering, where she provides an important role model for women, and a model of excellence in teaching and research for all.

Gerda Lerner
Doctor of Humane Letters

Born in Vienna, Gerda Lerner, emigrated to the United States as a young woman in 1939. She graduated with the bachelor of arts degree from the New School for Social Research (1963), and received a master of arts degree (1965) and a Ph.D. in history (1966) from Columbia University.

Her work as a historian was among the earliest to focus on the importance of women's history; she is a pioneer in this field. Her books include The Grimke Sisters from South Carolina: Rebels Against Slavery; Black Women in White America: A Documentary History; The Female Experience: Documents in History; Teaching Women's History; and The Creation of Patriarchy. She is currently at work on an extensive oral history project, "Documenting the Midwestern Origins of the Twentieth Century Women's Movement."

eth Century Women's Movement."

She has been a member of the faculty at the New School, at Sarah Lawrence College - where she also directed the master's program in women's history - and, since 1980, at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, where she is the Robinson-Edwards professor of history. Her professional honors include an Educational Foundation Achievement Award from the American Association of University Women, fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation and the Social Science Research Council, and a grant from the Ford Foundation. Among her professional activities are membership in the American Historical Association, the Organization of American Historians, of which she was president in 1981-82, and the American Studies Association.

In honoring Gerda Lerner, we recognize the accomplishments of a woman who has been at the forefront of the struggle to reclaim the role of women in history, and who, in doing so, has enriched that history for all of us.

Peter Lynch
Doctor of Laws

Peter Lynch is a graduate of Boston College (1965); he earned an MBA at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business Administration. After serving as a lieutenant in the US Army, he joined Fidelity Investments in 1969.

From 1977 to 1990, he was portfolio manager of Fidelity's Magellan Fund. During his tenure it became the best performing fund in the world, increasing its per share value by more than 2,500 per cent, and the largest equity fund, growing from $22 million to $14 billion. Mr. Lynch has also served as executive vice-president of the Fidelity Management and Research Company, as a managing director of FMR Corporation, and as leader of the growth group at Fidelity Investments. He is currently a trustee of the Fidelity Group of Funds, and a director of the Morris Knudsen Corporation and of the W.R. Grace Company.

sen Corporation and of the W.R. Grace Company.

In 1990, at the age of forty-six, he left his position as manager of the Magellan Fund to seek new challenges and to spend more time with his family. Since then he has remained active in a number of volunteer efforts. He is president of the Boston Archdiocese's Catholic Schools Foundation, and a trustee of Boston College, the Boston Public Library Foundation, Historic Deerfield, Massachusetts Eye and Ear Hospital, and the Museum of Fine Arts. He serves in advisory roles with, among others, the Order of Malta, Our Lady Star of the Sea Church in Marblehead, Salem Hospital, and the Third Century Foundation.

We honor Peter Lynch for his exceptional professional achievements - and for his no less exceptional record of service to his fellow citizens.

Mr. Lynch's degree was conferred on May 26 at spring convocation ceremonies of the College of Management.

Robert H. Quinn
Doctor of Laws

Robert H. Quinn, a native of Boston, was educated at Boston College High School, and graduated from Harvard University in 1952, and Harvard Law School in 1955.

Mr. Quinn had a distinguished career in the Massachusetts House of Representatives (1957-69). His tenure in the House included service as majority whip and majority leader, and finally as speaker (1967-69). From 1969 to 1975 he was attorney general of the Commonwealth. As active in the executive as he had been in the legislative branch, he established the Commonwealth's Environmental Protection and Consumer Protection divisions, and helped to create the New England Organized Crime Intelligence System.

Mr. Quinn is currently a partner with the law firm of Quinn and Morris. In addition to his professional activities, he has played an important role in civic affairs, working with such groups as the Boston Ballet, the Family Counseling and Guidance Centers, and the New England School of Law.

To a significant degree UMass/Boston's Harbor Campus could be called the place that Quinn built. UMass/Boston itself had been established - with significant help from then Representative Quinn - at a downtown site in 1965. He soon took the lead in the campaign to create the Harbor Campus, which opened in 1974. From 1981 to 1986 he chaired University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees, overseeing and guiding UMass/Boston's continuing development as an important urban public educational institution. In recognition of his contributions, the Robert H. Quinn Administration Building on the Harbor Campus bears his name.

We honor Robert H. Quinn for his dedication and decades of service to the Commonwealth, to the greater Boston community, and to the University which he has done so much to sustain and strengthen.
